

The contact number and email for booking a seat for services is changing

From 18th October

you will need to contact Steve or Julie Waterworth on 01653 694387 or email stpetersbooking@btinternet.com

Because we are now in the wonderful but difficult position of becoming oversubscribed for services, we will only be able to take names for the following week's service and not block bookings for weeks ahead.

Because of the social distancing restrictions placed upon us to help keep you all safe, we have a maximum number we can accommodate and we need to be mindful that we don't exclude someone just because they can't attend every week.

Anyone unable to get a seat one week (and we hope that will never happen) will be offered first for the following week.

We will take your request at the end of a service for the following week BUT there may be times, if it goes above our capacity, that we will have to contact one or two of you to ask you to cancel until the following week.

We will, of course, add you to a waiting list and contact you if a seat becomes available.

While this arrangement is not ideal we should praise God that we are in a situation where so many people want to attend our services at St Peters.

Thank you for your patience and understanding

Leadership team

The contact number and email for booking a seat for services is changing

From 18th October

you will need to contact Steve or Julie Waterworth on 01653 694387 or email stpetersbooking@btinternet.com

Because we are now in the wonderful but difficult position of becoming oversubscribed for services, we will only be able to take names for the following week's service and not block bookings for weeks ahead.

Because of the social distancing restrictions placed upon us to help keep you all safe, we have a maximum number we can accommodate and we need to be mindful that we don't exclude someone just because they can't attend every week.

Anyone unable to get a seat one week (and we hope that will never happen) will be offered first for the following week.

We will take your request at the end of a service for the following week BUT there may be times, if it goes above our capacity, that we will have to contact one or two of you to ask you to cancel until the following week.

We will, of course, add you to a waiting list and contact you if a seat becomes available.

While this arrangement is not ideal we should praise God that we are in a situation where so many people want to attend our services at St Peters.

Thank you for your patience and understanding

Leadership team